FAQs

- Landscape Design School (LDS) is a series of four courses presented by distinguished lecturers on landscape design, methods, history, theory and analysis. LDS is open to the public. The courses do not confer professional status.
- This course is certified by National Garden Clubs, Inc. (NGC) that mandates the Course requirements. Each course consists of lectures, readings from the text, the course handouts and other readings. Tours of designed landscapes are not included in this curriculum.
- LDS benefits anyone who wants to enhance their knowledge of landscape design—personally, for civic projects or as an introduction to a future career. It is a prerequisite for NGC members who wish to become a Consultant of the prestigious Landscape Design Council. (LDC) After successfully completing two courses, a member may obtain Provisional Consultant status in the LDC. and after four courses, a member may obtain Consultant status. LDS also serves as credit for Consultants to refresh their credentials or attain Master Consultant status.
- A student may start with any course. To receive credit for Consultant status, four courses must be completed in seven years. More than one course may be taken a year.

- Attendance at all lectures and any Field Trips is required to receive credit. Unfortunately, we are unable to excuse absences.
- While optional, all students are encouraged to take the exam. If, prior to attending Course 3, you read the Chapters in Stewards of the Land, the article in The National Gardener, the handouts provided, and listen to the lectures, you should be able to pass the exams. Passing two exams provides eligibility for becoming a Provisional Consultant. Passing four exams provides eligibility for becoming a Landscape Design Consultant.
- Those taking this course as a Refresher do not take the exam.
- The exam is on the assigned readings, lectures and Course Information. The lectures supplement the readings and do not teach the text. The Course Information is distributed by email prior to the course; therefore, it is important to read the required readings prior to attending class and prior to taking the exam.
- The exam given at the end of each day covers material from only that day's lectures and readings.
